School Studies Changes

New school legislation adopted by the 61st legislature will be the main discussion of the Mid-winter conference for School Administrators in Austin this week.

D. R. Dodson, Cameron Superintendent of Schools, said the new rulings will have far reaching effects on the local school program ranging from change in starting dates to increase in teaching staff and vocational training program.

New regulations are listed in a 302 page book "Laws and Resolutions Affecting Public Education by the 61st Legislature."

Dodson said dates for the school term were under study at present with an aim to coordinating local school schedules with new college and university terms.

Under the new ruling, state colleges and universities will adopt a schedule that would put the fall semester from late August through mid-December and the spring semester from January to mid-May.

Dodson said Baylor summer school would start May 15 and other colleges in the state would be about the same.

"If our teachers are going to summer school, which we want to encourage, we must be out in early May," he said.

"The legislature extended our days required in class from 175 to 180 per year and this with the early closing would push us to about an August 13 opening date."

A legislative provision for increasing vocational training in high school could add seven teachers if classroom space were available, Dodson said. Yoe High School would qualify for 13 vocational teachers (including vocational agriculture and home-making), but present physical facilities were not adequate for additional programs.

The vocational training section provides for teachers, but buildings and equipment would have to come from local funds.

He said a section allowing transfer of some students to nearby Junior Colleges for vocational training with high school credit could be a part of the local program.

Public school kindergarten was also included in the new legislation, but Dodson said in the Cameron schools it would just mean a lowering of the entering age.

The kindergarten section is for pre-school training for children with a language problem (children not fluent in English).

Dodson said their were not enough children in the Cameron district to qualify for this.

The early entering provision would allow children who are at least 5 years, 7 months old to start school for the school years of 1973-75 and children who are at least 5 years 4 months of age to enter school being with the 1975-76 school year.

Dodson said actual working guidelines had not been drawn to date, but they assumed this would merely mean an early starting for 1st grade rather than an actual kindergarten program.

The state will pay two teacher aids beginning next fall, Dodson said the local school board would determine if they will hire an additional two teacher aids or if they will channel title funds now paying two teacher aids into another program.

An icy cold wind tumbled temperatures to below freezing Monday night and after a cold clear Tuesday night to the low for the year, an official 16 degrees.

Temperatures started going down late Monday and by Tuesday morning thermometers registered in the low 20's. Official low Tuesday was 23 degrees.

A warming trend is predicted for this afternoon under clear skies.

City plumbers were busy with calls Tuesday and Wednesday as low temperatures froze water pipes and Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. reported some line breakage due to ice and cold.

Texas shivering under the bitter cold took little comfort in the knowledge that 28 states reported lows of 0 degrees or below.

Only rain reported since January 1 was a 1.55 inch rainfall preceding the cold front Monday.

Temperatures were:

Buckholts Man Dies In Crash

A Buckholts man was pronounced dead at the scene of a one-car accident Saturday evening just inside the Milam County line.

His was the county's first 1970 traffic death.

Martin Mendoza, 46, died when his pickup truck left Highway 190 and crashed into the Santa Fe Railway underpass 2.1 miles east of Rogers about 5:50 p.m. Saturday.

Highway Patrolman Milton Wright said Mendoza's pickup apparently went out of control after hitting loose gravel on the curve near the underpass. The truck skidded across the highway, up the embankment and hit the concrete underpass.

Mendoza was pronounced dead at the scene by the Justice of the Peace Jess Brock.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church. Burial was in St. Monica Cemetery, Green's Funeral Home was in charge.

Survivors include his wife; six daughters, Mrs. Sally Jaramillo of Rogers, Misses Irene, Lydia, Eleanor, Marguerita, and Angelina Mendoza, all of Rogers; four sons, Manuel of Rising Star, Martin Jr., Jessie and Noe, all of Buckholts; one sister, Mrs. Francisca Aguilon of Temple; and two grandchildren.

Region Tryouts

Cameron will host tryouts for the All-Region Band for Region VIII on Saturday, January 10 at Yoe High School. This is the first time Cameron has hosted an event of this kind.

Participating in the tryouts which start at 9 a.m. will be 219 students from 31 schools. Top students will be eligible to compete in Area tryouts for the Texas All-State Band.

The band selected Saturday will perform in Taylor next Saturday.

Yoe band director Bob Carney, in charge of the event, said the tryouts are sponsored by the Texas Music Educators' Association. The All-State Band will perform in Taylor next Saturday at the TMEA convention at Dallas in February.

Members of the Yoe High Band will be hosts for the all-day event.

Schools represented here at the tryouts will include: from Waco - Richfield University, Robinson, Midway, and Connally; from Austin - Crockett, Austin, Lanier, Travis, McCallum, and Reagan.

Also, West, Hillsboro, Lorena, Temple, Belton, Killeen, Coppas Cove, Franklin, Gatesville, Brenham, Marlin, Mexia, Stephens, Austin (Bryan), A&M Consolidated, Westlake, DelValle, Round Rock, Georgetown, Granger, and Bastrop.

Varsity To Name Cage Sweetheart

The Cameron Yoemen's last game Friday night before district basketball play opens next week will be sparked by the presentation of Basketball Sweetheart and "Sadie Hawkins" night.

The sweetheart will be named from among three candidates nominated by the Yoemen. "Sadie Hawkins" night lets the girls switch roles with the boys: they invite boys, pick them up, and buy the tickets and Cokes for the game.

Coach Ron Murdock said on Tuesday that the Yoemen are facing two "tuffies" this week--the "giants" of Rosebud on Tuesday and Connally on Friday.

The Yoemen are now 8-9 after their stunning 78-63 upset over Rosebud Tuesday night. Robert Brashear led scoring with 30 points, with Jerry Richardson adding 13. Eight points each were scored by Johnny Steamer, Willie White and Ken McLerran.

Cameron has been hampered by a shortage of "strong, offensive punch," Murdock said. "If we can just develop our full offensive power and potential, we can hope for a pretty good season, even if we don't get as far as we did last year."

"I didn't realize until now how much we miss Tommy and Bobby," Murdock added, recalling the strength added to last year's varsity by Tommy Terrell and Bobby Simpson. Both starters graduated in May.

Mayor Says No

Mayor E. A. Perrin announced to the City Council Tuesday night that he will not be a candidate for reelection when his term expires in April.

In a short, one-hour meeting, Councilmen heard good news from Jim Camp, local insurance agent, Camp said insurance for the City's coverage under the Tort Claims Act will cost less than he had estimated.

The yearly premium will be about $2,220, plus $386 for coverage on Cameron Airport, Camp said. Cost for 1970 to October 1, start of the city fiscal year, will be about $1,700 plus cost of airport coverage.

Camp also explained that the Cameron firetruck is still covered by the city's insurance when it answers calls outside town.

Four insurance agents had been requested by city officials to discuss and agree upon a satisfactory division of the insurance commission and agents Camp, Forrest Sapp, and L. W. Stroup attended the meeting.

They reported that Camp's should be the servicing agency writing the policy, and that they

Maxwell Won't Seek Re-Election

H. D. Maxwell, Milam County School Superintendent, announced this week that he will not seek re-election to the post he has held for the past 12 years.

Maxwell, whose home is in Rockdale, has been connected with the teaching profession for 47 years and has been in the Milam County school system 37 years. He is now completing his third term as county superintendent.

For 21 years Maxwell served as vocational agriculture teacher for the Rockdale school system. From 1954 until 1958 he served as principal of Rockdale High School.

His long years with the Rockdale schools plus his 12 years as county superintendent have made Maxwell one of the best-known school figures in Milam County.

In announcing his retirement, Maxwell did not comment on his plans for the future, but said he will remain in Milam County and will retain his home in Rockdale.

Schiller Stricken

Jerry B. Schiller, 60, died in a local hospital at 11:20 p.m. Saturday after an apparent heart attack.

Mr. Schiller was born in Rogers and was the Dodge, Plymouth and Chrysler dealer in Cameron for 24 years. Before that he was employed by the Santa Fe Railway Company in Temple for several years. He married Miss Tillie Krall of Buckholts on June 26, 1929.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Monday in the chapel of Marek - Burns Funeral Home, with Rev. Wirt Skinner and Rev. J. E. Lafferty officiating. Burial was in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Tillie Schiller of Cameron; two daughters, Mrs. Beverly Barrett and Mrs. Marcia Bryan, both of Cameron; four brothers, George Schiller of San Antonio, Edwin Schiller of Zabcikville, Walter Schiller of Temple and Milton Schiller of Cameron.

Also surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Elsie Tomasek of Buckholts, Mrs. Louis Reznicek of Houston and Mrs. Bill Vitek of Waco; and three grandchildren, Kyle, Kimberly, and Kolette Barrett of Cameron.

FARMING CATFISH...

Fish farming, as noted by a Herald Page 1 story of January 5, is a new source of income for the farmer who now is more conscious of being a landowner than crop grower.

If he can convert open acreage near water into productive stock tanks for growing catfish, he can make better use of his land. The high yield per acre is in line with the landowner's modern concern about taxes and land value; that he cannot farm it for what it costs to buy and maintain in taxes.

Where he has nearby water to keep his catfish farming going, he can. If he continues to grow cotton or other expensive crops on less than large tract basis, he can't make it.

It is going to take sophisticated applications like catfish farming, feed lot development, produce and other high yields on low acreage to keep farming a profitable venture for the time. Some day sheer demand for food may ariht the picture.

MEDIOCRITY ENTHRONED

The pursuit of excellence may give meaning to the lives of some inhabitants of planet

Earth. For Septimus Welch, a 54-year-old London carpenter, the desire to excel has meant only frustration. A British court has upheld an employer's right to fire Mr. Welch because the man's workmanship was of "unnecessarily high quality." It seems that the artisan's insistence on quality craftsmanship slowed up production.

The sanctification of mediocrity by a court of law is depressing. Even sadder is the rebuke to the perfectionism of Mr. Welch. If the conscientious craftsman is of a philosophical turn of mind, he may take comfort in the reflection that all merit is an affront to the slack and slipshod. A passion for excellence is even more pernicious when it conflicts with the profit motive.

Demo Registration Lags, Says Sen. Yarborough

AUSTIN

By Vern Sanford
Lagging voter registration may spell bad news for Democratic officials, according to no less an authority than U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

Yarborough called a news conference in the Statehouse the day after State Republican Chairman William Steger of Tyler announced Texas GOP's plan to field strong candidates for both senator and governor this year. Steger cited a poll as the basis of Republican hopes, but Yarborough said registration statistics, not polls, are the real cause for Democrats to be wary. He said 80 per cent of Republican strength already has registered in such large counties as Harris, Dallas and Midland, while the sign-up is poor in traditional Democratic strongholds.

On the same day, Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. urged all eligible adult Texans to exercise their constitutional rights by registering. Dies is the state's chief election officer. January 31 is the registration deadline. Dies issued these reminders:

Any citizen 21 years of age or older on the day of an election, who has been a resident of the state for at least one year and a resident of his home county for six months immediately preceding the election, is qualified to register for voting.
Eligible persons may register by personal appearance at the main office, branch office or authorized substation of the home county tax assessor-collector. Written applications may also be made to the tax assessor-collector.

The husband, wife, moter, father, son or daughter of a voter may act as his agent in registering if the agent is a qualified voter.

A person who moves to Texas after October 1 may register during the regular period or afterward but must have been registered for 30 days before voting.

Any person who will meet qualifications before Feb. 28, 1971, may register during the regular period. Those who will become 21 after January 31 may register during the regular period or afterward.

CRIME FIGHT

Department of Public Safety Director Wilson Speir persuaded the Criminal Justice Council to provide $864,638 to enlarge the DPS training academy at Austin. This, subject to availability of funds.

Colonel Speir said the proposed construction and renovation would expand the student capacity of the facility from 181 to 381. Also, space would be made available for the council's proposed Texas Crime Information Center, a bank of computers and Teletypes linked with DPS offices around the state.

Council also voted to consider changing its name at the next meeting. Acting Chairman Harold Dudley said Gov. Preston Smith favors the title "Texas Justice Council", eliminating the word "criminal".

Among the eight local projects given council approval was a rehabilitation program for the El Paso County Jail. Project will involve counseling and a job-training program, starting with a cooking and baking school.

AIR POLLUTIMN

Texas Air Control Board will set up a regional office in Houston within the next three months. But the state board does not intend to duplicate any pollution control services offered by Harris County, the City of Houston or other local agencies.

Executive Secretary Charles Barden said the Air Control Board has been planning a regional office in Houston for a long time, but a request had just come in from the city. Regional offices already have been established in Corpus Christi, Tyler, Fort Worth and Lubbock.

COURTS SPEAK
Texas Supreme Court held Houston must turn over to Harris County hospital district $1.4 million in pension funds contributed by and for Ben Taub and Jefferson Davis hospital employees.

Court ordered new trial in controversy over ownership of $10 million 21 Turtle Creek Square apartments in Dallas.

Hall County man failed to convince high court his loss of sight was caused by cotton gin accident.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES
Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin says in an opinion that County and District Clerks must issue, without cost, as many copies of certified documents as is necessary to make claims for veterans benefits from the United States Government.

In other opinions Martin concluded that:
Railroad Commission has authority to prescribe safety standards for transportation of gas and gas pipeline facilities owned by a city and the attorney general is authorized to enforce them.

Provisions of Texas Engineering Practice Act are not applicable to Department of Health in establishing standards for design of hospitals and related institutions. Designs for structures larger than those specified in the act do not have to bear the seal of a registered professional engineer if the designer is exempt.

State Health Department is obligated to pay half the salary of a pilot for a plane jointly used under contract with the Department of Public Welfare.

Use of a horn, recording or other device to call or attract wild foxes in Shelby, Nacogdoches, Sabine, San Augustine, Falls or Leon Counties is illegal.

AGRICULTURE

Farm production in Texas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma for 1969 probably will fall a little short of last year's levels. So reports the 11th Federal Reserve District.

Livestock production, with more cattle on feed, will be up about six per cent, but crop production, hurt by adverse weather, will experience a 10-per-cent drop.

Nonetheless, the estimated farm gross of $6.1 billion and net of $2 billion will be slightly higher than last year.

QUARANTINE INVOKED

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Animal Health Division, placed Fayette County under federal quarantine for hog cholera on December 18.

Action is part of a stepped-up campaign to wipe out the costly swine disease. Quarantine will be removed as soon as threat of spread has been eliminated. "Stamping out" activities against cholera involves prompt and complete disposal of all infected and exposed herds. State-federal indemnity payments are made to farmers whose animals must be

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Although I fought against it, at the turn of the year I had to make a trip into Dallas and the man I was riding with got caught in a traffic jam, cars in four lanes backed up for fifteen or twenty blocks in both directions with all motors running, and I have concluded the the articles I've been reading in the newspapers lately about air pollution are right. It's terrible.

Then last night, after reading in another article, I got to thinking and have figured out what we ought to do about it.

According to it, the Russian people are clamoring for more cars, the waiting list for the few cars now being produced is so long children as they grow older replace their parents in line.

In fact, in the whole of Russia there are now only a million passenger cars, which means one car for every 3 people, which means if the notion struck them every-body in the entire country could ride around at the same time, if they could get by the trucks which aren't included in these figures. This literally means everybody and his dogs and in-laws too.

It's this Russian demand for more cars that interests me.

I don't care what it costs, if the United States is smart it'll the hundreds of thousands. It doesn't make any difference what the terms are, even if we have to take two cans of cabbage soup and a loaf of black bread as the down-payment, just so we get the cars over there and running.

It's not the balance of power it's the balance of pollution that's going to make one country equal to another and if we don't get Russia and the rest of the world up on our level we're in trouble.

To get the program started, I've got a 1951 model car out here on this Johnson grass farm I'll be glad to export to Russia for a very reasonable figure provided it goes to somebody living in the heart of the metropolitan area of Moscow. It burns a quart of oil every 25 miles.

Yours faithfully,

J.A.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley F. Yolles, M.D., Director
National Institute of Mental Health

Detecting emotional and mental disorders in their very early stages—and preventing their further development—can be a most important part of a good school health program.

Training school personnel to this end is therefore the subject of support by the Division of Manpower Training Programs of the National Institute of Mental Health.

Promising among examples of new endeavors thus aided is a recently launched program by the Rochester, N.Y. public schools and the University of Rochester. An earlier pilot project showed that encouraging results could be obtained.

Not only will school professional personnel be trained to work in the new program, but also housewives, inner-city residents, high school dropouts, and retired people.

Then a mental illness prevention program will be developed, patterned initially after the pilot project, and set in motion in about 12 Rochester elementary schools.

The program which the newly trained workers will develop will include early personality evaluation of first grade children. This will be based both on testing and on teacher observation.

Then, it is expected, the program will detect and spot those who give evidence of existing or beginning emotional problems.

Slim 'Built-Out' Harbors Books

If you need a place to shelve some books but are short on space, try attaching a tall, narrow frame to a wall. A "built-out" bookcase, 18 inches wide and five feet high, positioned at a convenient and proportional level on the wall, will house quite a collection.
Use boards one-half inch thick and eight inches wide for the frame, which should be fastened securely to the studs (books are heavy!). Attach metal self-spacing strip on the inner sides and space shelves of half-inch matching wood to accommodate book heights.
Frame and shelves may be stained to match paneling or painted to match or contrast with the wall for accent.

Telephone Count
Up 35% In Decade

As 1969 drew to a close, telephone company Manager C. L. Carson reported the number of telephones in Cameron has grown to a total of 3,126.

He noted this figure compares with 2,343 telephones here at the end of 1960, an increase of 35 per cent. Cameron gained about 100 telephones in 1969.

"Cameron residents also seem to be growing more talkative," Carson said. "They dialed 12,910 calls per average business day during November, a 4.8 per cent increase from the January average of 12,318."

He said the telephone story in Cameron has been one of continuous growth. Dial equipment for 100 new telephone numbers was installed in 1964 and dial facilities for another 100 new phone numbers was installed in February 1966.

Continued growth required dial switching additions in 1968 and again in 1969. These projects added still another 200 new phone numbers for Cameron.

OUTDOORS
IN TEXAS
BY VERN SANFORD

This is about a "Disappearing Duck." It's a beautiful fowl, if ducks can be classed as beautiful. Anyway, it's as streamlined as a jet. It's as saucy as a gander. And it's fascinating to behold. But, it's almost extinct.

There are very few in Texas. In fact their smallest number exist in the Longhorn State. When we say "very few" you can appreciate that there are fewer in Texas than in any other state. . . and Arizona has only about 20. Between 100 and 150 occur in the wild in New Mexico.

This species is more numerous in Mexico. It ranges only as far north as San Louis Valley in Colorado.

Chances are most Texans haven't seen this fascinating little fowl. But through conservation efforts now under way you may some day have that pleasure.

This rare species of duck is known technically as the ANAS DIAZI NOVIMEXICANA.

It is a duck of many common names. Here is a partial list of the monickers attributed to this particular fowl: The New Mexican Duck, the New Mexico Duck, the Mexican Duck, the North Mexican Duck, the New Mexican Mallard, the New Mexican Black Duck and just the Black Duck.

According to Richard M. Kerr, wildlife management biologist of Santa Fe, New Mexico, there probably are no more than 250 of the birds during their peak period of occupancy.

Because of its low population the Mexican duck, as we will call it, now is considered an endangered species.

Complete range of the duck is extremely localized. It is found in Western Texas, southwestern and central-southern New Mexico, southeast Arizona and Northern Chihuahua, Mexico. Quantities in Mexico are unknown. But that area evidently is its principal breeding ground.

This little "imitation mallard" has problems worse than the oft-referred to duck on the hot tin roof. His is a matter of survival.

What has caused the downfall of the Mexican duck? Probable reason for its shrinking population are — drained marshes, channelized rivers and lower water tables. The latter's due largely to increased well-water pumping.

Human disturbances probably have contributed to the decline, as has cattle grazing at critical times.

Thanks to the Federal Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife, which recognized the duck's need for assistance, a propagation program now is underway. Cooperating with the Bureau is the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish.

Federal Bureau of Land Management administers about 600 acres of marsh, which is prime historic habitat for this species. About 400 acres are in New Mexico and 200 in Arizona.

Prime mover in the preservation of this black duck with the lemon-colored bill, that so resembles the mallard hen, was William S. Huey of the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish. He was instrumental in capturing and propagating the duck in captivity. Revival began with five ducklings trapped in 1959.

Recently, Huey and many others have been able to obtain as many as 40 birds from one cooperator—who, among others is raising birds in the wild.

Thus began the comeback of the disappearing duck which we hope will before long be re-appearing in numbers on the waterways of the Southwest.

Every year some fisherman loses a motor in the water because he forgot to use a tie-down chain or rope. Be sure every time you hang your outboard motor on the transom that there is a chain or piece of rope linking the motor to an eye-bolt on the transom. A motor at the bottom of the lake is useless.

You can make an easy plug knocker by using a six-inch length of garden hose. Slit it unevenly. When your plug hangs, slip the piece of hose over the line and let it down. Usually, if your line isn't wrapped, the weight of the hose will knock the lure loose.

E. O. SCHILLER PHARMACY

106 S. Houston 697-3511

By Alva E. Sanders
Amazing changes in American agriculture were cited today as "believe-it-or-not" facts of the last two decades.

More changes have taken place in 20 years than were seen to have taken place in the 80 years before. Back in 1870 one farmer provided food and fiber for every five persons. It took sixty years for that ratio to double — by 1930 one farmer was growing food and fiber for every 11 persons. By 1960, the ratio was one farmer to supply every 26 persons. Today one U. S. farmer provides food and fiber for about 45 persons.

This rapidly increasing efficiency means that Americans today pay only about 16 and a half percent of their disposable income for food — less than any people anywhere have ever paid. Disposable income is after-tax income—the money people actually have for spending purposes.

Other changes cited include the drop in farm population — down 10 million today from about 26 million in 1947. During the same period, farm consolidation has cut the number of farms in half from 6 million to 3 million. The land in farms, however, remained relatively unchanged — about 1.1 billion acres.

What it adds up to is a technological and economic revolution in American agriculture. Americans need to realize that agriculture is not a static industry, but is actually one of the leaders in our technological progress.

Hermann Sons Install Officers For Five Lodges

Officers for five Central Texas Hermann Sons lodges will be installed by William V. Dielmann Jr., grand secretary — treasurer of the Hermann Sons, in a ceremony at 2 p.m. Sunday, January 11.

Installation will be held in Union Hall on Highway 79 W., Rockdale, with the Rockdale Lodge as host.

Having their officers installed will be Lodges: Cameron No. 140, Burlington No. 235, Rockdale No. 51, Temple-Belton No. 5, and Marlin No. 141. All lodges have both men and women members.

Assisting Dielmann in the ceremony will be Mrs. Nettie Howell of San Antonio, member of the Youth Activities Committee of the Grand Lodge; Ellis Howell, San Antonio fraternalist; and Walter Prescher of Clinton, Grand Lodge district supervisor.

Donald Fleming and Della Laywell of Cameron will have Charolais, Hereford, and Shorthorn steers competing in the 1970 Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, January 30 through February 8.

David Canary, who plays "Candy" on the Bonanza TV series, will be special guest star in the Stock Show Rodeo. Canary, accompanied by the young musical group, New Establishment, will appear at all 20 performances of the Fort Worth Rodeo.

Over 500 top pro cowboys will compete in the Rodeo action events, where more than $80,000 in prize money and entry fees will be divided.

Mail order tickets for the 1970 rodeo are available from the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, P. O. Box 150, Fort Worth, Texas 76101.

Good Records Ease Tax Filing

Taxpayers who kept good financial records last year should have no trouble preparing their 1969 Federal income tax return. A. P. Andrews, administrative officer of the Temple office of Internal Revenue Service, stressed today. Complete records are especially important, he said, to taxpayers who elect to itemize deductions in filing.

Accurate expense records, such as cancelled checks, receipts, records of contributions, are essential if a taxpayer's return is selected for audit. All records should be retained for as long as they may become material in the administration of any internal revenue law.

Another advantage he declared, is that taxpayers with good records can complete and mail their Federal tax returns as soon as they receive their W-2 withholding tax certificates, thus eliminating last minute searches for such papers as the April 15 filing deadline draws near.

He also suggested that, through 1970, records and receipts should be accumulated to ease the tax filing job for 1971. A final tip: A copy of the previous year's return is one of the best guides for preparing the current return.

County Agent's Notes ...

What The Census Means To You

By J. D. Moore

Shortly after the first of the year you will get a big envelope in the mail that says: 1969 Census of Agriculture. Inside will be a questionnaire with quite a batch of questions about your farm business for 1969.

This comes at a time when much is being said about "Big Brother" government peering in to the affairs of private citizens. Some legislators have accused the government of wanting to know too much about people including such information as whether or not you have certain bathroom facilities, and information about childbirth. Granted that that might be embarrassing to some—but what about questions in the Census of Agriculture?

It appears to us that the Farm Census is a different breed of cat. The government took the first census of any kind in this country in 1790; it was primarily a "people count" to see how many legislators states were entitled to. Incidentally, it found about 4 million people in 1790, and one out of six was a slave. We've taken a "people count" every ten years since—there'll be one in 1970.

In 1840 the government took the first special Census of Agriculture to learn more about the nation's farming. This turned out to be so valuable that later we started running a Farm Census every five years.

What's so valuable about a five-year Agricultural Census—and does it do farmers any good? First, look at some of the things it shows for each county and the nation: The number of farms; average size; farms owned by corporations; the average value of land and buildings per farm; acres irrigated; the number of farms grossing $40,000, $20,000, $10,000, down to part-time farms.

It also counts the total number of cows, hogs, sheep and chickens by counties and the average number per farm. It shows where the crops are grown and the average acreage per farm; how much machinery there is on farms; off-farm income; and how much money is spent for fertilizer, pesticides, labor, feed and other things.

So what's so useful in knowing all that? Commercial companies say that if they are planning new fertilizer or chemical outlets, they comb Farm Census figures to find the most logical places to locate. Processors who want to open new plants use the Farm Census to plan the best locations. Machinery companies use the Farm Census for locating use the Census to decide where to ship supplies to have enough to take care of farmers. Some locate new plants where the Census shows plenty of part-time farmer labor.

The government tells us that the Farm Census helps them put farm services where they'll do the most good. Let's say there's a new poverty program or a rural housing program — the Farm Census shows where the farm poverty is. If it's a manpower training program to teach new skills to farm people—a look at the Census and past patterns of migration shows where the program is needed the most.

The Census is used for farm programs, too: "Congress can't make intelligent decisions in regard to agriculture without having accurate information," W. R. Poage, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee tells FARM JOURNAL.

"The Farm Census is basic in providing agricultural statistics useful to the Congress in developing agricultural programs," agrees Sen. Allen J. Ellender, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee on Agriculture.

"We couldn't study farm problems or operate farm programs without Farm Census information," comments Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin. "When you fill out a Census questionnaire, you are performing a public service—and at the same time helping yourself."

The Census results are also used to revise and strengthen USDA figures—for example, the USDA uses them to construct better samples for more accurate but more economical crop and livestock reports.

The Census of Agriculture releases figures only by groups of farms—never by individual farms. And even the income tax people can't look at your Census return.

We do have this suggestion for the Census Bureau and Congress: If the Farm Census is going to be really worthwhile, then the results should be published in a hurry. It wasn't until 1968 that many of the figures were printed from the 1964 Census. There's no excuse for that delay. If farmers do their part, then the Census Bureau should get the results out with all haste.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Harold's partner lay dying. "Make me one last promise," he whispered to Harold. "My wife doesn't know a thing about business. Will you keep an eye on her affairs after I am gone?"

Solemnly, Harold promised. But a few months afterward, he informed the widow that he no longer had the time to help her. Left on her own, she soon made some costly blunders. Blaming her woes on Harold, she filed a damage suit against him for breaking the promise he had made to her dying husband.

But the court held Harold not liable, since the promise he had made was strictly one-sided—hence not a legally binding contract. The judge said promises of this kind "create bare moral obligations, binding only on the conscience."

This is a general rule, that moral obligations are not enforceable in a court of law. It is based on the practical difficulties of measuring such intangible qualities as honor and duty and love.

Nevertheless, there is a natural reluctance on the part of the courts to let the breaker of a promise "get away with it"—if that can fairly be avoided.

For this reason a promise will usually be enforced if there is, in addition to the moral obligation, some semblance of a legal obligation to back it up.

In one case a furniture manufacturer, unable to collect for some tables sold to a store, was reluctant to take legal action against his customer. He waited so long, in fact, that his claim was finally barred by the statute of limitations. But not long afterward the customer himself, in a repentant mood, made a promise to pay off the old debt. Could the manufacturer enforce this promise?

A court ruled that he could indeed, because it was based not only on a moral obligation but on an original legal obligation as well. Even though the legal obligation had been barred by the statute of limitations, the court said it was enough of an "extra" to justify making the customer live up to his promise.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) I'm a full-time college student and think I will get a tax refund, if I don't have to count a $750 scholarship as income. Is it income?

A) Scholarships are generally not taxable and do not have to be reported for tax purposes. Since there are many different types of scholarships, you will want to check with the organization that gave you the scholarship to see if they have information on its tax status.

Q) Why did IRS drop the short form 1040A?

A) One important reason was to make it easier for taxpayers to claim all the credits, deductions and exclusions they were entitled to under the tax laws. In recent years more and more taxpayers have found it to their advantage to itemize deductions as their income increased.

The new Form 1040 is one basic page and actually calls for just about the same information that had to be entered on the front and back of the old card form. Over 30 million returns will need just the one-page Form 1040 to be complete, while another 22 million will have to attach only one additional schedule.

Copies of the schedules taxpayers will most likely need were included in the tax package mailed to some 75 million taxpayers.

Q) I got married in December. Can my wife and I file a joint return for 1969?

A) Yes, if you are married on the last day of your tax year, you can file a joint return. Your wife then cannot be claimed as a dependent on the return of another taxpayer.

Q) Does the new tax form make any difference in the way a farmer handles his credit for gas used on the farm?

A) No, the gas tax credit should be claimed as it has in the past by attaching Form 4136. The amount of credit claimed should be entered on line 21 of Form 1040.

Q) What is the surcharge rate for 1969 and how do you figure it?

A) The income tax surcharge is 10 percent for 1969. Tax surcharge tables are included in the tax packages and can be found on page T-1. These tables show the amount of surcharge based on the amount of tax liability and your filing status.

Remember that Schedule T, the tax computation schedule, will be just a worksheet for most taxpayers and need not be sent in with the Form 1040. Only if the taxpayer claims a special credit such as retirement income, investment or foreign tax, or has to pay self-employment tax, should Schedule T be sent in with the return.

Q) I rent out some land to a farmer nearby. Do I include the rents I receive as farm or rental income?

A) Enter the rents you receive from your land on Schedule E, as rental income, and attach it to your Form 1040 when you file.

Unless there is material participation in the business of farming, the rents you receive are not considered farm income.

Q) Are there any tax benefits for those 65 and over? I'll be able to file that way this year.

A) Yes, there are several benefits for those 65 years of age and over. For example, there is an extra $600 exemption for age, and special provisions covering the sale of a personal residence.

These are explained in Publication 554, Tax Benefits for Older Americans. Send a post card to your District Director for a free copy.

Water Use Rising Fast

Water usage is increasing more than twice as fast as America's population. Consumption in 1960 was around 40 billion gallons daily. Now it's around 350 billion daily.

Progress Told For Industry

AUSTIN being a year of development throughout the state it was also a year of planning. "For the first time in history, Texas now has a comprehensive plan for industrial development which we feel can mean the industrial totals we are discussing now are just a drop in the bucket to what we can expect in the future."

NEW PLAN TOLD The Comprehensive Industrial Plan was unveiled several months ago by Gov. Preston Smith, and is now in its formative stages. The Texas Industrial Commission plan calls for division of the state into 21 regions, each to be studied by qualified professional consultants to determine industrial development potential in the seventies.

James Harwell, executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission said in a year-ending report.

Harwell said most of the record growth came in the first six months of the year, with 198 new plants locating in the state and 264 existing industries undertaking substantial expansions. This compared with 126 new plant locations and 251 expansions for the same period of 1968. The most activity came in the areas of chemical, metal and transportation industries.

However, despite the rising costs of construction and tight money, Texas continued to net a substantial amount of new industries in the last half of 1969. Although final figures are not yet available, officials estimate new plant locations for 1969 will number about 350, compared with 291 last year and expansions will reach the 465 mark, compared with 444 in 1968.

These totals are reflected in a Bureau of Business Research report on nonresidential construction from January-November 1969, showing a 22 percent boost and accounting for the lion's share of all construction increases during the period.

Manufacturing employment also reflects the economic growth. The Texas industrial work force in 1968 totaled 707,600, and was reported at 728,900 for just the 11 months available in 1969. But, Harwell believes 1969 and its records are not the pinnacle for industrial development in Texas.

"On the contrary," he said, "It is just the start. Besides

Each community will be judged on its own merits. Local goals will be set up involving the industrial development that would best complement the local economic base.

The feasibility of attracting selected industries will be studied, and recommendations will be made on what would be the best industry to seek. Also, local leaders will be apprised of barriers keeping them from other industries and steps will be taken to eliminate all barriers possible.

When the plan is carried out, officials feel each community will not only know how to seek new industry, but will know what industries it is suited for, and where not to waste their time. The year was also one of honor for the state's industrial development program, with Texas becoming one of only three states in the nation to receive the coveted "E" Award for export development from the U.S. Department of Commerce. Under Secretary of Commerce Robert McCallan presented the award to Gov. Smith and addressed a joint session of the 61st Legislature.

The Diplomatic Pouch

WASHINGTON, D.C.--The Department of State is receiving heavy mail from U.S. citizens on the critical issue of Viet-Nam. The following summarizes the answer to one of the questions most frequently raised by these correspondents:

Viet-Nam: Immediate Withdrawal

QUESTION--What would be the results of precipitate, unilateral U.S. withdrawal from Viet-Nam?

ANSWER--The hasty withdrawal of large numbers of U.S. combat troops would give the enemy forces an immediate and significant tactical advantage. It would be technically impossible to redeploy rapidly a body of troops the size of our force in South Viet-Nam without greatly endangering many of the troops involved.

If U.S. withdrawal were carried out faster than South Vietnamese forces could fill the gaps, unprotected parts of the country would fall under Communist control. Such reverses would severely damage South Vietnamese morale.

The military and psychological advantage thus given the enemy would probably lead in time to a North Vietnamese takeover of the South and forcible imposition of Communist dictatorship--a political system repugnant to the great majority of the people.

North Viet-Nam would deal harshly with thousands, perhaps hundreds of thousands, of those associated with the long anti-Communist struggle. Precedents for this are: 1) the liquidation of at least 50,000 people by the new Communist regime in North Viet-Nam in 1954-56; and 2) the murder of some 3,000 men, women, and children during the North Vietnamese Army's brief occupancy of parts of Hue in 1968. Captured documents confirm that such purges are a deliberate element of North Vietnamese strategy.

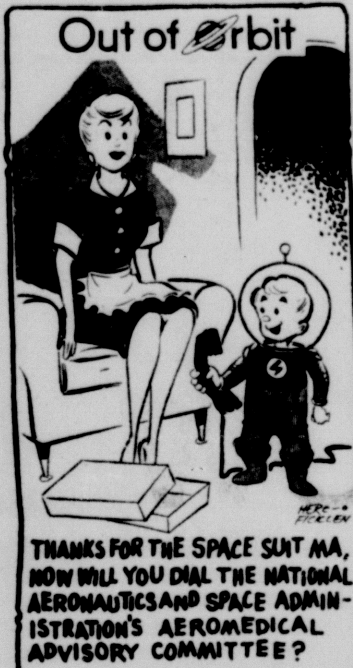

Precipitate withdrawal would be considered around the world as a failure by the U.S. to fulfill an important international commitment. As a result, the risk of armed conflict in other areas of the world where peace has been maintained in part by a U.S. commitment--the Middle East, Europe including Berlin, Latin America--would be increased.

The 20-year effort in Asia for collective security against Communist expansionism would be dangerously weakened, with serious implications for all non-Communist countries in the area.

Political divisions in the United States could well be enlarged and embittered, rather than eased, by what many Americans would regard as a dishonorable course and one damaging to the national interest.

Homes are as good an investment as diamonds or rare stamps--and more useful. One study indicates 75 million new living units will be needed in the next 30 years--or 15 million more units than exist in this country today.
